Since its inception in 1999, the Web Site Evolution (WSE) series of events has provided a forum for researchers and practitioners to present original work on subjects related to the disciplined evolution of large-scale Web sites. Following the success of the 2005 Symposium, WSE 2006 aims to bring together members of Web engineering and software maintenance & evolution communities for an expanded two-day gathering. WSE 2006 will provide researchers and practitioners working in the areas of Web application design, development, maintenance and evolution with an environment to discuss results and exchange experiences.

WSE 2006 will be held in Philadelphia, PA on September 23 and 24 and is co-located with the 22nd IEEE International Conference on Software Maintenance (ICSM 2006). ICSM is the community's flagship event focused on the modernization of existing systems. The technical program of WSE 2006 will include invited talks, paper presentations, and discussion sessions.

Topics

Topics of interest include but are not restricted to the following aspects of Web-based application design, development, maintenance and evolution:

- Models, methodologies, and architectures
- Tools, environments, and technologies
- Documentation
- Design and implementation
- Costs and benefits estimation
- Testing and quality evaluation

Submission Process

Participants should submit a research paper or experience report, not exceeding 4000 words (8 pages using 10-point type), including figures and references. Authors may optionally submit abstracts for informal feedback by May 26, 2006. Full paper submissions must be received by Monday, June 19, 2006, and may be in Adobe Acrobat PDF or Microsoft Word formats. Papers must be submitted online via the CyberChair system at: <http://cyber.rcost.unisannio.it/~wse2006papers>.

Special Issue of the JSME

Authors of best papers from WSE 2006 will be invited to submit an extended version of their papers for a special issue of the Journal of Software Maintenance and Evolution: Research and Practice (JSME).
